DEFINITE PROPOSAL SUBMITTED BY ALLIES

Plan Would Prevent Any Nation Acquiring Mastery, But Would Leave Waterways Open.

Lausanne, December 6 .- (By the Associated Press.)-A strong appeal for freedom of the straits, with the right of warships to pass to and from the Black sea, was the outstanding feature of the Near Eastern conference today, which received from the entente nations a definite project for the future control of this great world waterway. The Russian plan for the exclusion of all but Turkish warships from the straits received a bac blow by the allied proposals.

Richard Washburn Child, the American ambassador, adopted the broad standpoint that the very interests of the countries bordering on the Black sea made it imperative to keep the straits open. The United States in common with every commercial nation wished access to every free body of water in the world, and America would not be satisfied if her ships of war could pot pursue their peaceful errands wherever American citizen

Our allied proposals, saying it meant rebut Ismet Pasha, for Turkey, informed The Associated Press that he considered the entente propositions suitable basis for further discussions, which will be resumed Friday.

In addition to the plan presented today the allies are arranging for the formation of a committee of experts to work out detailed regulations for protecting Constantinople. Succinctly the allied proposition for controlling the straits is as follows: In time of peace there shall be complete freedom of passage for the mer-chant ships of all nations, but the number of warships shall not be greater than that of the most powerful of the littoral powers of the Black sea existing in the Black sea at the time of passage.

Details Of Plan. If, however, the Black sea powers should abandon all their naval forces, individual powers would still have the right to send through the straits a fleet of three ships, but only one of these ships could exceed tonnage of ten thousand. If war occurred, in which Turkey was neutral, there should be complete liberty for the powers, with the same limitation as to the number and tonnage of ships as in time of peace. If war should break out and Turkey was a belligerent, neutral warships could pass through under the same restrictions. The plan for the demilitarization of the straits territorial zone prohibfortifications on either side of the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus.

This article is the fifth of a series written exclusively for the North American Newspaper Alliance by Georges Clemenceau. The series breaks a silence which dates back to the signing of the treaty of Versailles. Not until the present visit has the "Tiger of France" expressed himself upon international affairs in either speech or writing, not even in the pages of his own journal, Echo Nationale. His words are being read eagerly today in France, England, Holland, Switzerland, Argentina, Japan and many other countries where these articles are being released simultaneously for publi-

At the termination of the most formidable and the most glorious of vars, France did not assemble as trophies in her public places the booty surrendered by the enemy. Piously and with dignity she placed beneath her most celebrated arch of the capital, and under simple flagstone, the remains of an unknown soldier who had died to defend her.

Who does not grasp the significance of that gesture? It was a tender act of homage to all those who had fallen; it also expressed our intention never to forget the horrors of the conflict, and it served to remind us of touching the holding commission of our promise made to those sleeping in the dust: that we should assure Flatly Refuse to Consid- the convention and its relation to their descendants the benefits of peace, give them justice and prosperity er District Agreements Mercer university and Bessie Tift and watch over the maintenance of that pact of reparation and justice signed by twenty-seven states at Versailles. Such are the sentiments of France, and yet it is France who is accused of disturbing the peace of the world, who is denounced as a militarist nation; it is France who is suspected of being responsible for the birth and development of all European quarrels! If these calumnies only emanated from our former enemies or from such elements among our allies as are determined to upset the existe ing order and substitute an "internationale" more or less communist in character, it would be almost unnecessary to refute them. But when our friends go to the extreme of imputing criminal motives to us, then it is essential that we explain things quite freely at the earliest possible moment and in the common interest. What does France wish? To live!

Governor's Remarks Resented by W. Woods White, Who Says Two-Quart Law Proved to Be Utter Failure.

That the Georgia prohibition laws re decidedly more drastic in dealing with dry violators than the national Volstead act, and should be modified so as to "apply to the rich as well as to the poor," was the assertion of Governor Thomas W. Hardwick, in an address Wednesday afternoon at a luncheon tendered in honor of Major Chairman, Harding Asks Roy H. Haynes, national prohibition ommissioner, a visitor in the city.

The governor's statement fell upon the ears of approximately sixty guests, the majority of whom were dry officials and agents from Georgia and neighboring states, who assembled in Atlanta to greet their national chief. Considerable comment upon the governor's sentiments with regard to the Georgia laws followed among members of the assemblage.

"Enforcement of laws that reflect upon the personal liberty of American citizens is an exceedingly difficult matter," asserted the governor. "Georgia's prohibition laws are decidedly more drastic than the national probibition Volstead act and should be modified. I believe that we have gone too far in framing our state probibition laws, as its provisions are such as to cause a belligerent sentiment to become manifest in the minds of the populace generally, and if the people themselves do not believe in a certain law, they will finally repeal it through their representatives.

I realize fully the storm of protest I will bring upon myself by making these statements, but I must say that, personally, I believe we have gone too far."

Resented by White.

Governor Hardwick's views were resented by W. Woods White, widely known local prohibition leader, who declared that the system of permitting citizens in the state to possess a limited supply of whisky, "had been tried under the old two-quart law and was a dismal failure."

"Thelped frame the Georgia prohibition law," said Mr. White, "and with the group of prominent citizens who saw the ill-effects of the former two-quart law, there was no other course to pursue other than the law that now rests upon the statue books. We had allowed the citizen to possess two quarts and the system was flagrantly violated.

"Governor Hardwick is a far-sighted man but I do not believe he understands the prohibition question in Georgia, or is familiar with conditions relating to enforcement of these laws in the state."

Dr. Charles O. Jones, head of the Georgia Anti-Saloon league, and widely known Atlanta minister, delivered a short address in which he commended the work of the prohibition enforcement department in Georgia and other states in suppressing liquor traffic and enforcing the dry laws.

Given Loving Cup.

his former coworkers. The former assistant director was unable to attend the luncheon, having left Atlanta for Chicago Tuesday where he has accepted a commercial position.

Congressman William D. Upshaw, of the fifth district, extended a welcome in behalf of this district to Commissioner Haynes, as did also Walker Lee, secretary to Mayor Key, who was unable to attend the luncheon. The concluding address was made by Mr. Haynes, following his introduction by Director Dismuke, who acted as tonstmaster. The former referred to the position of Governor Hardwick by stating that he was much interested in statement of the governor but did not care to discuss the question involved.

Must Enforce Law,

Lausanne, December 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—Foreign Minister Tchitcherin, of Russia, tonight raised the question whether Ambassador Child's statement today before the Near East conference with relation to the control of the Turkish straits and the Black sea may be interpreted as meaning that America would only have occasional warships enter those troubled waters on errands of mercy. In discussing the American position with the Associated Press M. Tchitcherin said Mr. Child's statement needed explanation. He continued: ciently on its capital to meet its obligations under the terms of the bill, ligations under the terms of the bill, which provide for automatic cessation of government aid and the return of excess profits to the government. From the proceedings taking place in the committee room, it is believed by some that the bill may ultimately be abandoned. In support of their opinion they point to the statements made by the president in the last paragraph of his letter, which indicates that the white house would prefer that the measure be defeated rather than stand in its present form. Senator Jones submitted the president's letter in support of his motion to strike out the amendment in question but it was opposed by both democratic and republican members of the committee. The argument over the amendmentbecame so hot that Senator Jones finally threatened to drop the measure entirely, declaring it would be "useless and idle to pass the bill, with the amendment" because it "struck at the vital, fundamental of the bill, and would be destructive of its effectiveness and purpose." Washington. December 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—Whether the Washington government is prepared to participate in an international commission to control the Turkish straits, as proposed by Lord Curzon for the allies at Lausane, is a question still to be answered. It can be said definitely, however, that so far the United States does not stand committed to accept such participation should the international commission program be carried out.

Presumably the American attitude in that regard would be determined only after full consideration of the specific proposals or the allies. There has not been time as yet for any official interchange with Ambassador Child at Lausaune on this point.

The ambassador's statement of the American position as to the Turkish straits is welf-street.

Fight Anticipated. In view of word coming from the white house that President Harding has accepted the challenge of the progressives within the party and is ready to strike back with all the force of the administration, interest-

The offensive will consist, it is said, in offering numerous amendments of great bulk with the demand that they be read in full. One such that they be read in full. One such proposes the repeal of the Esch-Cummings act, which is a fairly long document. Another embodies the treaty of Versailles, more than 90.000 words in length. This is said to be on the desk of Senator Swanson, of Virginia; while Senafor Harrison is said to be prepared to offer an amendment codifying the revised statutes, subject running above one million words.

These, however, are said to be the only preliminaries of the filibuster, which will be led by Senator La Follette. After consideration progressess additional tactics may be employed, the main objective throughout being aside from the killing the bill, to force an extra session of the new congress next March, when the progressives will form the balance of power in both houses. It is then that Senator La Follette intends to embark on his career—one that will determine the fate of the third party movement, which is declared to be the real motive behind the recent progressive conference, although denied by its leaders. These, however, are said to be the

The zone includes the Gallipoli peninsula, which was the scene of the great English-Turkish battle in the great war, and takes in the islands of the Sea of Marmora and the group of islands in the Agean which lie at the entrance of the Dardanelles.

A significant feature of the demilitarization project is interdiction of all submarines in the territorial waters of the demilitarized zones and islands.

To Protect City.

As a special protection for Constantinople the project authorizes a garrison not exceeding 10,000 men, but no armed forces shall remain or move in the demilitarized zones.

Lord Curzon, who lengthily explained the allied proposals, said that the international commission of control would have a Turkish permanent president. The United States would be a member. The exact procedure whereby the commission would be constituted and whether it will work under the league of nations has not yet been decided.

In attacking M. Tchitcherin's plant to close the straits to all except the Turks. Lord Curzon referred to the Panama canal. Under international law, he said, Russian and Turkish warships have the right of free passage of the Panama Canal, as well as the Suez and Kiel canals and other straits. But M. Tchitcherin wanted to deny these rights to other nations with respect to passage between the Mediterranean and Black seas.

Attacks Russ Scheme.

He declared that the Russian scheme wished to undertake such a role. It is probably significant, however, that the leave the Black sea free as international commission but confined himself to declaring that his written without any assurance from the straits of the straits was apparently the object of the ambassador's statement. Otherwise an impression might be gained that the Washington government supported that program in detail.

In that connection it is to be noted that thr. Child made no suggestion for control of the straits through an international commission but confined himself to declaring that his written without any assurance from the straits.

tending the convention of the American Face Brick Manufacturers and Dealers' association in West Baden, Ind., has been provided with a special invitation to that organization to hold its 1923 convention in Atlanta.

The invitation which Mr. Kriegshaber will present to the body at West Baden, Thursday was signed by Gorernor Hardwick, Mayor Key, F. J. Paxon, president of the Atlanta Convention bureau: Mrs. B. M. Boykin, president of the Atlanta Woman's club; W. C. Royer, president of the Atlanta Hotel Men's association: E. K. Large, postmaster, and Fred Houser, secretary of the Convention bureau.

Besides Mr. Kriegshaber, over a dozen other Atlantans are attending the convention, and the total attendance generally runs around 500. The invitation to meet in Atlanta carries the promise of furnishing free the convention hall and calls attention to the points which would be considered in selecting a meeting place.

The public works committee will request contractors to submit estimates on the cost of the proposed improvement at an early date.

Among the prominent citizens who amembers of the Atlanta Motor club ourge the improvement were J. M. B. Hoxsey, J. M. Van Harlingen W. G. Peebles, Jr., Julian Boehm, M. B. Dunbar, Homer S. Prater, R. R. Smith, F. L. Butter and E. Rivers.

J. M. Van Harlingen, president of the Motor club, said:

"We believe that with the opening of Piedmont avenue to automobile traffic it would relieve Peachtree all of the Piedmont, Boulevard and Ansley Park sections, part of Ponce de Leon avenue and Druid Hills, etc.

"In addition to this a very large amount of traffic destined from the north to the south side would find its way into Piedmont avenue, thereby considerably relieving the congestion prevalent in the center of our city."

Enfeebled to a point of exhaustion, yet she remained on her feet, sustained by those young soldiers "entering upon their careers," as our "Marseillaise" says, their elders no more. Sending back our wounded to the firing line directly they left the hospital, sacrificing, without considering a moment, an irreplaceable elite of characters and brains, leaving the cultivation of the soil to women, old men and children, France succeeded in mobilizing 90 per cent of her male population between the ages of 18 and 50. A prodigious effort and one only equalled in the domain of war material production.

The war cost our country 150 milliards of france and a further 200 milliards in damage to property and individuals. Almost all our foreign investments, constituting a goodly portion of our national wealth, had had to be realized. From being largely a creditor and lending nation, we became heavily indebted. Above all, we lost 1,400,000 of our children and $00,000 were mutilated and 3,000,000 wounded. France made all these terrible sacrifices with one heart because she knew that defeat would imply deshe knew that defeat would imply de-struction. Germany had proclaimed the fact, through its emperor, through its chancellors, through the declara-tion of its great industrial and agrition of its great industrial and agricultural associations, through its intellectuals, that, victorious, she would annex the iron mines of Briey, the coal of the north and the Pas de Calais, the coast line from Belgium down to the mouth of the Somme, plus the hinterland, in order to give to the ports involved their full importance commenced in the street of the st ance economically and strategically; finally, Toul, Verdun and Belfort. The inhabitants were to be dispossessed. Nor did it suffice to dismember France, to take from her the provinces providing a third of her wealth; she was to be left without resource of any kind. "In the inesource of any kind. "In the in terests of our own existence we must weaken this country politically. It is necessary to impose a big war indemnity on France without exhibiting any regard for her." I recall this phrase—taken from a secret memorandum forwarded to the German chancellor by the League of Industrials and Agriculturals, the league of the middle classed, in order to emphasize our own moderation. Not an inch of German territory annexed not a protesting deputy in our parliament, no economic servitude, no war indemnity. Nothing but reparation. terests of our own existence we must ment, no economic servitude, no war indemnity. Nothing but reparation. A nation like France that has proved in a superhuman way her desire to live has the right to obtain from her war allies the co-operation necessary for the execution of the peace conditions. It does not suffice to sign peace, we must realize it. necessary for the execution of the peace conditions. It does not suffice to sign peace; you must realize it. So long as the last shocks of war have not trembled away, there is no room for an individualism putting into question once more all the victories so dearly won in common. To realize the new order all must co-operate. France will not as much as remind her allies of the promises made to her, and which have never come to anything. She declares herself proudly decided to keep all the engagements entered into by her. She asks only one thing; that she shall not succumb through the passiveness of her friends. Reconstruction and security are for France necessities. If France is not paid, if the devastated areas are not rebuilt, there is no chance of her economic regeneration. If her frontier may be invaded by a neighbor who dreams only of revenge, there is no more national life. It would be suicide for France to renounce this dual policy of reparation and military security. The treaty of Versailles will only have marked a truce in the tragic history of the world, ruined by allied discord, by allied negligence and indifference, if it smother in the ruin France, symbol of justice, of democracy and of liberty.

No imperialism, but no oligarchies. Such should be the order of the day. If it is intended to consolidate the eace in allied harmony, we must go quickly.

immediately was taken to the library. As he descended from his automobile the aged statesman was given a start by a flash set off by the photographers who were dispersed by the police before he left the home.

The call at the Wisson home was an important incident of a day that proved one of the busiest M. Clemenceau has had since he landed on American shores three weeks ago. His activities began with an early morning visit to Arlington cemetery and ended late tonight with an address to the Southern society in Continental Memorial hall, where a few months ago the treaties negotiated at the arms conference were signed. Between times he spoke to American army officers, most of them overseas veterans, at the war college and made a pilgrimage to Mount Vernon.

M. Clemenceau, as he stepped forward to speak, confronted an enthusiastic audience which crowded the hall to its capacity and greeted him with the rebel yell, mingled with applause. Joining in the applause were unmbers of the southern congressional delegations on the floor and on the platform Senator Harris and former Senator Hoke Smith, both of Georgia, 'Uncle Joe" Cannon and other notables, including Henry White and Ambassador Jusserand. Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson occupied a box.

On his visit to Arlington the former premier went directly to the tomb of the unknown soldier, upon which he laid a wreath and before which he laid a wreath and before which he bowed in silent prayer. Halting only a moment later on his way back to his automobile to get a view of Washington from the Potomac hills, M. Clemenceau drove to the war college, there to give utterance to his first remarks since arriving at the capital last Monday.

As the visitor walked briskly to his place on the lecturers' platform, 'the assembled officers stood and applauded him for several minutes. As he departed the traditional dignity of the army was cast aside. Grouping themselves on the broad stone steps of the college, major generals, brigadiers, colonels and those of lesser rank, under the leadership of Major General McClatchlin, commandant, gave three rousing cheers and a "Tiger."

From the War college M. Clemenceau drove to the navy yard, where he boarded the naval yacht Sylph for the trip to Washington's home. Accompanying him were Jules J. Jusserand, the French ambassador, and Mrs, Jusserand; Henry White, former ambassador to France, whose guest he is while in Washington, and Mrs. House, who has arranged for the visit to America.

ATLANTA ELKS TO VOTE ON MANY CANDIDATES

Atlanta lodge No. 78, B. P. O. Elks, will vote on a large list of candidates at the meeting of the lodge to be held Thursday night at 8 o'clock. Many important business matters will be taken up at that time.

In order that the convention be a big success, the lodge is working hard on the various activities necessary to produce this result. The uniform patrol, which was recently organized in order that Atlanta be represented by one of the finest bodies of marching men in the entire convention, is rapidly reaching a stage of perfection.

The dances held every Saturday night at the Elks' home are becoming very popular with the members of the lodge. Large numbers are in attendance regularly, but the committee, acting on the old saying that "the more the merrier," is urging all

SHIP BOARD REPORTS

States Shipping on Foreign Trade Lines.

Washington, December 6.—Growth of United States shipping in foreign trade, establishment of extensive passenger services in the North Attantic, the Pacific and to South America, and stabilization of the government shipping venture on a strictly business basis are pointed to as the year's outstanding achievements in the sixth unual report of the shipping board. Reviewing at length the functions of the board since its inception to carry forward the ration's tremen-dous efforts to transport food, troops dous efforts to transport food, troops and supplies overseas during the war, and the various changes in policy incident to the armistice, the report shows that the existing board's functions relate not only to the physical running of ships, but range over the entire field of a nation's merchant marine. Labor, port facilities and commerce are discussed in detail.

"The board," the report says, "is required not only to aid in the development of ships and shipping companies but also to assist in planning the improvement and development of ports and transportation facilities in connection with water commerce."

Altogether the shipping board has had during its career 3,444 ships, totaling about 19,598,000 dead weight connection with water commerce."

Altogether the shipping board has had during its career 3,444 ships, totaling about 19,598,000 dead weight tons. These were obtained from various sources. Some have been sold, and many are now tied up idle. The report shows that notwithsanding depression in shipping, there were at the close of the fiscal year on June 30, 1922, approximately 50,000 men engaged on vessels of the American merchant marine and a larger number of longshoremen employed in loading and unloading. More than $10,000,000 and longshoremen employed in loading and unloading. More than $10,000,000 and longshoremen employed in loading and longshoremen emp gaged on vessels of the American mer-chant marine and a larger number of longshoremen employed in loading and unloading. More than $10,000,000 an-nually has been saved in the reduc-tion of marine and longshore wages of shipping board vessels alone. Re-ductions were effected after strikes and negotiations ranging from 18 to 25 per cent.

Wage Policy.

The policy of the board regarding raking wage readjustments is de-ciared in the report to be based wher-ever possible "upon collective bar-gaining which has resulted in allay-ing as far as possible the discon-gaining which has resulted in allaying as far as possible the discontent and resentment which usually follow wage reductions."

During the last fiscal year, the report says, there were 37,312 arrivals and departures of vessels engaged in foreign trade aggregating 80,231,000 long tons of cargo. Of this total 52 per cent moved in American bottoms. In relative efficiency indicated by the relation of load to deadweight tonnage the American percentage was 37.9 per cent compared with 36.4 per cent foreign. While American ships used 2,62 deadweight tons to move cent foreign. While American ships used 2,62 deadweight tons to move each ton of cargo, foreign vessels used

At the close of the fiscal year the effort to find buyers was continuing, but the board still had for sale 1,686 vessels, totalling 10,809,172 deadweight tons. Wood Fleet Reduced.

During the year the wooden fleet was reduced by 236 vessels and the cost of the upkeep of the fleet was reduced by $41,000. The maintenance cost still stood, however, at an annual average of $919 per vessel.

The amount received from sale of "outlying projects" belonging to the loand during the year was $1,854,750, representing a return from property which had been given a "present fair value" of $2,113,600. The report says that "in acordance with agreement made with the office of the chief co-ordinator," sales and transfers were made at prices 15 per cent belew "present fair value." Sales from real estate brought in an additional $8,098,722. Ships Built.

It is noted by the board that the year saw completion of the war-time building program, the last ship built on government account, the Western World, having been delivered on May 3. The total number of ships delivered during the year was 23, as compared to 218 in 1921 and 1,002 in 1920.

A summary of the amount of commerce borne in American bottoms during the year showed that shipping board vessels handled 4,313,913 cargo tons of imports and 6,634,381 cargo tons of exports, operating through 43 United States ports. The total tonnage of the American merchant marine was fixed at 27,784,989 deadweight tons, compared to 27,538,464 a year ago. Of this total, 16,279,371 tons was employed at the end of the 1922 fiscal year in foreign trade, compared with 16,819,943 at the end of the previous twelve months' period.

The last fiscal year, the report says, noted a continued decline in freight rates and reduction in the number of steamers employed in the foreign trade.

rates and reduction in the number of steamers employed in the foreign trade routes. Due to this condition there was small opportunity for the establishment of new routes, the report added. At the end of the year, however, the board had in operation 327 passenger and cargo ships plying to northern European ports, 56 plying to Mediterranean ports, 46 to South America and the West Indies, 91 to the Far East and 4 in the intercoastal service.

In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1922, the prohibition commissioner said there were 20,483 convictions in federal courts for violations of the prohibition law.

in federal courts for violations of the prohibition law. Acquittals num-bered 4,625, cases dropped 3,217, and civil cases disposed of 544. At the end of the year, he said, 15,910 cases were pending in federal courts, bringing the total of cases handled to 44,779. These figures, he said, did not include cases in state courts. Fines in federal courts which were deposited in the treasury, he placed at $2,791,000.

mittee $139,000 had been spent in that way during the last year.

The prohibition commissioner underwent a long examination at the hands of Representative Gallivan, democrat, Massachusetts, who inquired particularly about the method of handling the department's publicity. Mr. Gallivan referred, among other things, to what he termed the "wildly extrayagant" statements be "wildly extravagant" statements he said emanated from the bureau, one of which he said credited Mr. Haynes of which he said credited Mr. Haynes with having asserted that 20,000,000 Americans had "gone on the water wagon since the enactment of the Volstead act." Mr. Haynes denied knowledge of the statement.

Mr. Haynes told the committee there had been a "splendid reaction" by the public towards his department's work and immediately clashed with Mr. Gallivan over the results of the elections of November 7, the Massachusetts representative citing the voting down in his state of an enforcement measure, and the comenforcement measure, and the com-missioner asserting that prohibition had won where "conditions were nor-

In reply to Mr. Gallivan, Mr. Haynes admitted increased arrests under the narcotic law during the last fiscal year, but attributed it to the "increased efficiency of the narcotic division."

Representative Magee, republican, of New York, raked if the commissioner "did not realize there is a widespread disrespect, defiance and violation of the laws?"

"That is true of all law," replied Mr. Haynes, adding that a sub-committee of the American Bar association had made a statement that disrespect for all law was at a maximum as a natural sequence of the war. Mr. Magee said there was no such condition a few years as and Mr. Gallivan insisted that the prohibition law had "caused disrespect for all laws."

It was charged that Green had embezzeled the money and had lavished it on Mrs. Katherine Bradstreet, of Atlanta, for whom he purchased a home in Atlanta, two automobiles, valuable furs and diamonds.

Green was convicted on a charge f embezzlement after the bank had tomobiles, valuable furs and diamonds.

Green was the superintendent of a Sunday school in Fairburn and an active church worker and it was charged he set fire to the bank to cover up his alleged defalcations.

In 1920 Green was indicted and later was convicted on a charge of embezzlement and has served about one year of his sentence. In his petition for a parole which was filed by Attorney H. A. Allen, of Atlanta, George Westmoreland and L. S. Camp, it is claimed that Green was in such weak condition at the time he was convicted, both mentally and physically, that he was not of sufficient mental responsibility to realize the consequences of his acts.

The Fairburn Banking company has retained Troutman, Freeman and Reuben Arnold, of Atlanta, to protest against the extension of clemency

Flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much meat and rich food may form uric acid, which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizzines, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Donaldson, of Kirkwood; Dr. P. A. Jessup, of Eastman, were among those who spoke to the report. It was finally adopted unanimously.

Following this report a memorial was brought to the convention by the trustees of Mercer university asking for the privilege of erecting two new dormitories and a central heating plant at a cost of $175,000 on the ground of anticipated income from the $75,000,000 campaign. Judge W. H. Davis, chairman of the Mercer board, offered the memorial and Dr. R. W. Weaver spoke to the report, explaining that unless some way could be found to provide more dormitory space Mercer would be forced to turn away many students next year. The memorial was received and permission granted to proceed with the erection of these buildings.

The afternoon had been devoted to a discussion of the report on education, which report was read by Rev. H. D. Warnock, pastor at Milledgeville. If the safeguards proposed in these communications had been put into effect before, the chances are that the High Point school fire, with its horrifying consequences, would not have occurred.

Mr. Martin recommends legislation creating "the office of state school architect, to be appointed by the state superintendent of schools, and to work under the direction of the state department of education;" or, as an alternative expedient, the enactment of a law willing to subscribe to its fixed "which shall specify how all principles may join. Kind Words for the Artists

NO MATTER how good a set a fellow has he can't go on raving about the distance he covers with it. Not that there isn't plenty of opportunity. There is in the case of Station WGM's plant. But there are just so many kind words floating in to Station WGM these days that it would be doing a good many artists a real injustice to ignore them.

That just explains why today I'm turning the column over to a lot of people who have been heard from WGM. Those who have heard WGM's artists right along don't need this explanation because they know the kind of concerts which have been given since we broke a champagne (?) bottle all over the front of the main panel of WGM. They speak for themselves,

Harwell-Coons Wedding Is Beautiful Church Event

An impressive marriage of wide social interest was that of Miss Louise Harwell and Herbert Coons, which is solemnized at St. Luke's Episcopal church Wednesday evening at 6 clock, Dr. C. B. Wilmer, pastor of the church, officiating.

Decorations at Church.

The decorations of the church were most artistic. Southern smilax and white chrysanthemums formed the lovely background decorations throughout the church, while the altar was banked with palms and ferns. On the altar a vase of Easter lilies was placed, and on each side were burning white tapers. The pews for the members of the immediate families were marked with white satin ribbons.

A very impressive musical program.

Soldier Activities.

Mrs. T. T. Stevens, president of the Atlanta City Federation of Women's Clubs, issues a call to federated clubs of Atlanta, which is of great importance in women's activities in Atlanta.

There are many important matters to which the Atlanta Federated clubwomen will give their time and attention during the next few weeks when the call to service is more urgent than at any season of the year.

The attention of the city federation is called to the following outstanding activities of interest to the clubwomen in the immediate future.

Christmas Seal Sale.

At Christmas time each year the Anti-Tuberculosis association calls upon the public to help fight the great white plague by buying the little Christmas seals. The Atlanta Woman's club, Mrs. B. M. Boykin, president for the protection of the community is invited to participate. The federation has been requested to assist in making the community is invited to participate. Joel Chandler ("Uncle Remus")

Birthday.

December 9 is the anniversary of the birth of America's greatest folklore writer, Joel Chandler Harris.

Mr. Harris lived and worked among the people of Atlanta, and those who were privileged to know him loved him for his gentleness of manner, and his quiet and unassuming bearing, which bespeaks true greatness.

Keep the Liver Prepared to Do Its Duty in Cleansing the System-Black-Draught Will Help.

Kernersville, N. C .- Mrs. Wesley Mabe, who resides near here, says Thedford's Black-Draught is kept in her home all the time, since it has proved very valuable when used to correct derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, and to help prevent sickness from developing from such conditions. "For dizziness, headaches, colds, and similar troubles, Black-Draught is a wonder," according to Mrs. Mabe.

"It helps carry away bile and cold the easiest of any medicine I ever saw.

"I have used Black-Draught with my whole family, and will continue to do so, as it has proven its worth. We are glad to recommend Black-Draught. My health is just fine."

Black-Draught has been found a useful adjuvant in breaking up colds, when the use of a laxative or cathartic medicine is indicated. It acts upon the liver as a tonic, helping it to drive poisons and unhealthful matters from the system.

Biliousness, dizziness, tongue, bitter taste in the mouth, often warn you that your liver is out of fix. Don't neglect it. Prevention of illness is better than cure. Take Black-Draught for your liver. Be sure you get Thedford's.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Our 2½ ounces of Pinex in a at bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pine—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for healing the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded.

She left the room and went on to Roger's. Surely this was the time to continue that brief conversation in which he had intimated that he was not sure of her feeling for him, and that something troubled him. She knocked again.

OUR CHILDREN SCHOOL ACCOMMODATIONS

BY ANGELO PATRI Author of "A Schoolmaster in the Great City;" Principal Public School 45, The Bronx.

Thousands of school children all over this broad land are closed out school because there is a lack of school accommodations. The war blamed for it.

The war is to blame for some of it, but what about the years before the war when grudging boards, held in thrall by threatening taxpayers, dared not extend their plants, although the educational leaders made the need very plain?

The war is over now. Four years ago the peace whistles blew and the joy bells rang. Business rushed to rehabilitate itself. The moneychoked profiteers scurried about to see how they could best hold fast to their gains and gain still more. Overburdened family men and women were sore put to it to keep things moving. Nobody but the school leaders thought of the schools and their claims were overshouted in the general clamor. The result is an overwhelming crowd of children looking for seats in schools already crowded to the breaking point "No money," is the cry. "No money. You ask too much. Shorten the school day. Increase the size of classes. Use the duplicate plan. Lengthen the school day. Cut out everything but the three R's. No

Foolish generation! The nation that wins the war-not won yet, though the whistles blew and the bell rang and the warriors took off their forms-will be that nation which best educates its children.

Accepting that fact and passing it along to the neighbors won't omplish that fact. That's a bad habit we have in common with the rest of the world. We say over the words of our remedy and forthwith rest of the world. We say over the words of our remedy and forthwith set about our business, feeling that we have accomplished something. It answered, then, suddenly ashamed of herself, sheerose and ran across the room to throw her arms around Cynthia's neck and kiss her. "It was a gorgeous party, and you were a perfect darling to give it for us," she to be educated. He said it would benkrupt the nation. It among to educate the children of this land as richly as they ought to be educated. He said it would benkrupt the nation.

to be educated. He said it would bankrupt the nation. But I say it will bankrupt the nation if it doesn't spend that money.

We willingly tax ourselves for amusements, and chewing gum, and shining things to put on our motor cars, and all that. I like to believe we would be quite as willing to tax ourselves for our children if the case were brought home to us vividly, which it isn't. There ought to be a Billy Sunday campaign for public education-one that would open up our vision and our purse strings at the same time.

That's all that's needed. A vision, and the money to make it come true. The teachers of this country have the vision and the people have the money. Now will somebody make it his business to see that the two meet? The children of this country are marching to our school doors only to be turned away or offered half a seat. "Let's go."

"If do hope you're not shocked at my bursting in upon your brother like this! We really are great pals, and I live only just across the way. John, I've brought you a message from Louise."

"About tonight?"

She nodded.
"Louise is most frightfully sorry."

The explained, "but she has to go down to Streatham to open a bazar, and she can't possibly be back in time to dine before the theater. Can you guess what she dared to suggest?"

"I think I can," John replied, smiling.

"Co. we? Tell me, then, because I am curious—tell me why you are so sure of what you say?"

"The world has it," he replied, "that you are the mistress of the Prince of Seyre. I came to London to satisfy myself as to the truth off that report."

led the way in silence down the stairs to the box that he had taken for the season.

The curtain was up and the play in progress. Louise easily dominated every situation.

The spell of it all, against which he had so often fought, came over John anew. Presently the same impulse which had come to him so many times before induced him to turn his head, to read in the faces of the audience the reflection of her genius. Tonight he looked beyond. He knew very well that his search had a special object. Suddenly he gripped the arms of his chair. In the front row of the pit, sitting head and shoulders taller than the men and women who lounged over the wooden rest in front of them, was Stephen.

At last the second act ended, and John pushed back his chair. Sophy, whose apprehensions were remarkably acute, especially where John was concerned, lifted the edge of the curtain and understood. She exchanged and understood if the won't like it!" she whispered. "Told you know that terrible man from the hills—John Strangewey's brother—has been here this morning? He finchingly be sat there, with an air of dogged patience. "Stephen has come here with a purpose," he said gloomily. "I might have guessed it He will see it through. He will at there till the end."

The curtain went up again and the play moved any with subtle yet in

"Well, I wouldn't put it quite like that." John declared, good-humoredly. "I asked her to marry me as soon as I came up, and we both agreed to wait for a time. Let us talk together, Stephen, as we used. I will admit that I have found most of the time up here wearisome. On the other hand, I am beginning to understand that I have been, and still am, very ignorant. It's no good being narrow about theaters, Stephen. "There is a difference in blooks," Stephen reminded him. "What about the play wiss Maurel is acting now? She's a man's mistress in it, it, isn't she, and glories in it?"

"Stephen," he confessed, "I loathed that play the first night I saw it. The next day—well, she talked the matter from her point of view."

"You're content, then, to let the show on the stage and play the vanjon for folks to grin at?" he asked.

"Look here, Stephen," he begged, a little wistfully, "it isn't any use talking like that, is it? If you have come here with evil things in your mind about the woman I love, we had better shake hands and part quickly. She'll be my wife some day, or I don't want to feel that words have passed between us"—

"I'l's ay no more, John," Stephen interrupted. "I was hoping, when I came, that there might be a chance of seeing you back home again soon. It's no easy matter for me to open out the things that are in my heart. I am one of the old-fashioned Strangeways. What I feel is pretty well locked up inside. The last time you and I met perhaps I spoke too much; so here I am!"

"It's fine of you," John declared. "I remember nothing of that day, we will look at things squarely together, even where we differ. I'm'—

"Do you mind?" John asked.

They dined together at Luigi's, a curiously assorted trio—Sophy, between the two men, supplying a distinctly alien note. She was always gay, always amusing, but although she addressed most of her remarks to Stephen, he never once unbent. Occasionally he glanced at the clock. John became conscious of a certain feeling of curiosity, which in a sense. Sophy shared.

"Your brother seems to me like a man with a purpose," she said, as they stood in the entrance hall on their way out of the restaurant. "Like a prophet with a mission, perhaps I should say."

John nodded. In the little passage where they stood, he and Stephen seemed to dwarf the passers-by. The men, in their evening clothes and pallid faces, seemed suddenly insignificant, and the women like dolls.

"Lightnin"."

(Coming to Atlanta Theater.) offerings that were heralded by tremendous public interest, provoked no such flow of inquiry. It is a matter of relief to the box office attaches that the seats are at last to be made available for the engagement on Thursday morning, December 7.

"Lightnin" is rated as the most successful play in the history of the American theater and in the few cities where it has been presented on tour hundreds have been turned away. This has been especially true of the final performances in the larger cities where the company has been booked for more than one day. John Golden, producer of "Lightnin" has decided that the present company headed by Milton Nobles will appear in a limited number of cities before sailing for London next spring. The Atlanta theater management has prepared for the heaviest rush of the season when the advance salopens this morning for "Lightnin." For weeks everybody connected with the theater has been deluged with questions as to dates, the prices and other details of the engagement. Even the visits of "Ben Hur," "Maude Adams" and other famous theatrical

Loew's Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

A new show comes to Loew's Grand theater today, the mid-week change of program with five new acts of vaudeville and an entire change of the photoplay bill. John E. Hanshaw, who will appear with Grace Avery as Henshaw and Avery in a comedy skit called "A Wild Night," has been a star in musical comedy for many years. His achievements in this line date back to the original "Passing Show Revue," which was launched by George W. Lederer, when that famous producing manager was in control of the New York Garden. He will also be remembered as the principal performer in "The Strollers," "The Chinese Hoeymoon," "The Shogun" and other musical successes of the past.

Other good acts on the same bill are Alfred Powell and company in a delightful conception of music and dancing, "Serve-U-Four," a comedy quartette, Cleveland and Courtney in small town comedy and Stanley and Altree in sensational gymnastics.

The feature of the screen bill is Alice Lake in "A Woman's Hate,"

"Oliver Twist."

(At the Metropolitan.)
Instead of painting on canvas, Lon Chaney makes portraits on his face. His greatest achievement in makeup will be seen in "Oliver Twist," starring Jackie Coogan, the favorite child of the screen, at the Metropolitan.

And every day the portrait thus painted on a face not at all like Fagin's must be identical in every line and shadow with the portrait that was painted the day before and the week, even the month before, for it took months to make this massive production, and Lon Chaney's work proceeds through its entire length!

The role of "the merry old gentleman," who taught boys the art of picking pockets, challenged the skill of the actor, who required two hours to lay on the color that would transform a good looking gentleman into the semblance of one of the most evil characters in all fiction.

MONSTER EGG HATCHERY OPENS IN TURNER COUNTY

Ashburn, Ga., December 6.—(Special.)—The monster 10,000 egg hatchery was started here yesterday with enough eggs to more than fill the sec-tion which is to be put into the incubator each week.

The incubator, which is to be run on the co-operative basis, will make Turner county one of the greatest chicken counties in the state present plans are consummated. It is under the direction of the Turner county co-operative sales agency, with an expert hired to look after the an expert hired to look after the hatchery.

Each week one-third of the capacity will be filled and each Tuesday one-third will be hatched off. Plans have been formulated by the poultry association here to keep it running at full capacity for five months.

Several herds of chickens in the county are now becoming widely advertised and it is expected that these will be tayed to capacity to furnish full effect of his lines through a deep and clear voice.

Louis Leon Hall as "Claudius, king of Denmark," and uncle of the prince, and Olive Oliver as 'Gertrude, Queen of Denmark," and Hamlet's mother, deserve great praise for their performance which measured up to the standard set by the other principals in the cast.

Richard Allen as Laertes, son to Polonius, and brother of Ophelia, did a most effective bit of acting in the portrayal of this character which is rather a difficult part.

Mr. Leiber has very evidently exercised a great deal of judgment in the selection of his company. There were none whose performance did not myance whose performance did not myance, most of whom probably were familiar with the play, obtained the full effect of the lines. The old philosophies which have been unequalled by, any modern writer reached out with a lasting impression "How to Study the Bible."

Although the wheat market showed at first a downward tendency ascribed chiefly to declines in price at Liverpool, a reaction soon took place with many traders looking for bullish developments at Washington. During most of the session gossip touching this subject was vague, relating to supposed plans for government financing of food exports. Just before the close, however, announcement was made that a bill to create a farm credits department had been formally placed before both houses of congress and that the bill, if enacted, would make available $48,000,000 in addition to the government's present $12,000,000 subscription to the farm loan system.

$12,000,000 subscription to the farm loan system.

Something of a general rush to the buying side of the wheat market quickly ensued, especially on the part of pit speculators who had previously been sellers. The upward swing of the market was also furnished momentum as a result of word that Europeans had taken a liberal amount of wheat today and that fresh rains had fallen in Argentina, impending the harvest there. Under such circumstances, and with sterling at a new high record, the wheat market closed at the topmost level reached.

of liquidation on an opening advance sent the price of January contracts off from 24.45 to 24.15 in the cotton market. Offerings then became decidedly small, however, while an increased trade demand was reported and a raily carried January up to 24.60. That delivery closed at 24.56 with the general market closing steady

The market opened steady 3 to 13 points higher on comparatively steady Liverpool cables, covering, and reports of a better outlook for a settlement of the Near Eastern problem. There were a good many over-night selling orders which supplied this initial de-mand, and after showing net advances of about 16 to 20 points, the market

December was relatively weak owing reports that certificated cotton was ing shipped here from New Orleans r delivery on contract. This prob-ly stimulated liquidation of later deliveries, and stop orders were unmaking net declines of 18 to 30 points, and declines of 216 to 275 points from the high records of early last month.

As the market approached the 24-cent level, demand became more accent level, demand became more active and trade buying was reported, presumably to fix prices. This checked the break and offerings later in the day were comparatively light with prices advancing on re-buying by old longs or covering by shorts on a belief that the technical position was stronger in futures, that southern spot holders were refusing to sell freely at declines, and that the trade was spot holders were refusing to sell freely at declines, and that the trade was disposed to buy a little more freely below 24 1-2 cents for March contracts. December rallied to 24.55 and March to 24.75, with the general list selling about 20 to 34 points net higher in the late trading. Private advices from the south reported no spot demand of consequence, but said that little or no cotton was offering. Port receipts today, 21.321. United States port stocks, 1.084.166. ## PRICES IN NEW ORLEANS MAKE HIGHER AVERAGE

New Orleans. December 6 .- Although of heavy liquidation of long contracts of prices was generally higher while a very firm undertone de-veloped. Advances occurred in the early trading, after which there was a setback, but towards noon the ada setback, but towards noon the advance was resumed, and in the afternoon prices were at their highest, net gains of 25 to 34 points, with the January position up to 24.25 cents a pound. The close was at net gains on the day of 14 to 27 points, January closing at 24.15.

The opening was higher and the first The opening was higher and the first advance amounted to 16 to 20 points before it was checked. A much improved technical condition, resulting from recent heavy selling for both accounts, was generally given as the reason for this strength. Extremely heavy liquidation met the initial advance and for a while it completely vance and for a while it completely dominated the market, sending Janu-ary down to 23.77, where the list stood 17 to 23 points under the closing quoof vesterday.

The downturn was not prolonged, a The downturn was not prolonged, a new demand of consequence arising on reports of a better feeling in the spot markets of the interior, the con-tinued rise in sterling exchange and reports from Washington that governlay prices were back up again to while in the afternoon the gains were increased with very little opposition from interests which recently have been furnishing selling pressure.

Studebaker officials estimate that $30 will be earned for the outstanding stock this year and $24 a share for all stock including the 25 per cent stock divident just declared. That beyond doubt will enable the directors to make good their prediction that the regular 10 per cent dividend can be paid next year at least.

There are two reasons why rail-road net operating income is prov-ing disappointing. One is that with a high record volume of traffic the carriers are forced to deduct heavier appropriations for manitenance of road bed and equipment. Hence monthly statements of operating inmonthly statements of operating in come compare unfavorably with a year ago when, because of the fall-ing off in gross, maintenance and ing off in gross, maintenance and all other expenses were cut to the very bone. The other is that this year the carriers, because of the adsome supplies, especially coal. Statistics just compiled by railway officials for August show that the carriers paid $4.87 on the average for a ton of coal. This is an increase of $1.41 a ton or 40 per cent over April when the coal strike began.

Adds Millions. As the railroads use 12,500,000 tons As the railroads use 1...300,000 tona of coat a month this single item added $17,500,000 to the operating expenses for August compared with April For August the percentage of gross need to pay operating expenses was $1.6 against only 75.5 for the same period of 1921. For the eight months of this year, the operating ratio was of 1921. For the eight months of this year the operating ratio was only 79.5. Then besides this increase in fuel cost, the railroads this sum mer and autumn suffered from ex-pensive freight congestion owing to the fact that equipment because of Sterling made another new high at explain the sensational recovery in Sterling to uncertainty existing her regarding our own internal position an explanation that seems about a far fetched as the one from there: far fetched as the one from these aday or so ago that the recovery in Sterling was due to belated recognition of England's improved credit resulting from payment here of interest on her war debt. # FOUR STAILURE for municipal office were elected without opposition. Threat of a republican coup brought out an unusually large vote for a general election, however, reports of brisk voting coming from a number of precincts. Leaders kept a close watch on the polls especially those in the first and fourth wards, each of which has a heavy negro registration. They reported that very few negroes voted. A number of the nominees and other leaders expressed their ophnion that publicity killed off an attempted coup. Plans for an opposition ticket were printed in an exclusive story in The Constitution ten days ago.

It is shocking to think that the gravedigger is the only man who can build such houses.

The Pyramids, the Temple of Karnac, the Acropolis of Athens, the Roman Colosseum, all yield to the tooth of time. A college president says that two thousand years from now there will be nothing left of New York but the subway. We can build houses for centuries, but not for Eternity.

But there is another kind of building which gives promise of outlasting the grave-digger's houses. That building is the reduction of the surtax rates themselves, in order to reduce the pressure for avoidance and maintain the revenues derived from the surtax.

"Until some such readjustment is made the yield of the higher surtaxes will tend, in the ordinary course of events, to drop toward the vanishing point. The wise course is to reform the surtaxes now while the system still functions and at the same time to close, so far as possible, the gaps to close, so far as possible, the gaps which now exist. On this basis the revision can be made without loss of revenue, and, in the long run, with material benefit to the revenues."

To Back Argument. To support his argument that the high surfaxes gradually are "defeating their own purpose," he calls attention that while net incomes of all classes during the period from 1916 to 1920 increased from $6,298,577,620 in 1916 to $23,735,629,183 in 1920, and the number of returns from $37.
